The joint meeting of two Research Centers of the Polish Studies Department will focus on two rare documents that belong to the genre of young readers' literature. The hand-written/painted objects, difficult to categorize, were designed in Łódź Ghetto. The talk by Orit Margaliot will present The legend of the children and the Jewish Police album. How to interpret objects that cross the usually applied genre boundaries? How to relate to the trauma of the Holocaust through ghetto fairytale? How documents of such undetermined status contribute to our remembering of the past?

The presentation will be followed by a discussion.

Orit Margaliot: studied history of art and general studies at the Hebrew University. Works at Yad Vashem since 2000, focusing on education in Israel and abroad as well as researching issues of Holocaust Art.
